Conservative Cabinet Undergoes Several Changes in Portfolios

"SHADOW CABINET"

Statements Issued by Minister of Justice From Orange Pekoe, Short And Sweet

Orange Pekoe, Que., Feb. 27.—(By Staff Reporter)—It was announced here today that the Hon. A. M. Klein, former Prime Minister of the McGill Mock Parliament has accepted the portfolio of the Minister of Justice in the cabinet. The return of the Hon. A. M. Klein adds a great deal of strength to the government and has caused a halt to the rumor that Hon. David Lewis, prime minister, would be forced to resign in the near future.

As we go to press we learn that Miss Vera Schlakman has accepted the post of Minister of Labour, thus becoming the first woman to hold cabinet rank in the McGill parliament.

Cabinet Meeting

Unionville, P.E.I., Que., Feb. 27.—Hon. David Lewis announced late yesterday that a cabinet meeting would take place here at 1 o'clock Monday morning.

To Hold Mass Meeting

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 27.—(By special correspondent)—The Rt. Hon. David Lewis, Y.P.S.L., Labor Premier, left late this afternoon with several members of his cabinet, for Montreal. On his way he will speak at several cities, and is expected to arrive at the metropolis early Tuesday morning, to be in time for the mass meeting on the McGill Campus at 1 p.m.

To Read Paper on Modern Literature

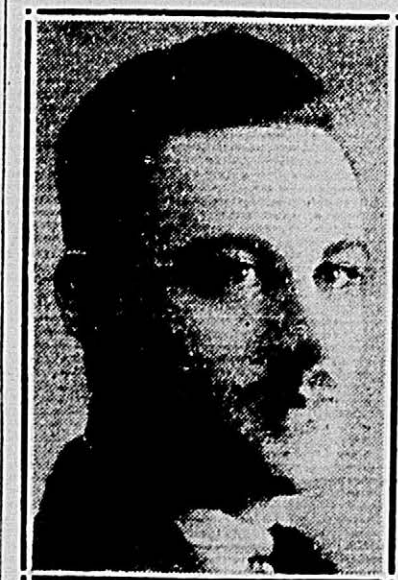

Werry Will Direct Discussion at English Literature Society

The next meeting of the English Literature Society is to be held on Wednesday, March, 4th in room 30 of the Arts building, at 4 o'clock. Wilfred Werry will read a paper on "An approach to modern literature". This latest meeting of the society will thus continue the study of modern literature, vexing and intriguing as it is, to those at all interested in the subject. The intense interest manifested at the last meeting in K. N. Cameron's discussion of James Joyce's "Ulysses", indicates the attention which at present is being paid to the literature of today, and the meeting to be held next Wednesday, promises to be every bit as well attended, and quite as interesting, as the preceding one.

Mr. Werry is an authority on his subject, and his paper on the same topic read at a meeting of the "St. James Literary Society", one of the foremost literary societies in the city provoked the most vigorous of discussions. When his paper was delivered at that time it received great praise and since then has been the subject of some discussion among those interested in the subject.

Mr. Werry's attitude, it is understood, will be a comprehensive survey of present day productions of modern presses, and he will endeavour to place them in a perspective which will

McGill Annual Lists To Appear Monday

Students Given Opportunity to Subscribe For Copies

ORIGINAL FEATURES

Cause of Congratulatory Expressions Already Received

Subscription sheets for "Old McGill 1931" will make their appearance on Monday morning in all faculties. The Annual Board announced yesterday. A complete organization has been worked out that will make sure that students will be given a chance to append their names on the lists as soon as possible, to ensure them of receiving copies from the first issue of the book. The price, which has been reduced to four dollars, will be taken from caution money, as usual.

It seems probable that "Old McGill 1931" will break all records for an early issue this year, and be ready for delivery on April 1st. In view of this it is "April Fools' Day" the Annual will be in keeping with the occasion. It will be hard to realize that this book is "the same old Annual." Already much favorable criticism has been received by the board on the originality of the issue. The two tone drawings, Holgate's frontispiece, the new Kabel type introduced, clever cartooning, and humorous articles are alone responsible for congratulatory messages already expressed.

Photos of Everyone

The book has taken on a decidedly modernistic makeup, and snappy reading is guaranteed all the way through. But perhaps the most outstanding feature is the "College Life" section that includes fifteen pages of photographs taken of campus life. Many of these photographs were taken while the victims unconscious. (Continued on Page Four)

Dr. Slight at Club Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock the Saturday Night Club will have as its guest speaker Dr. Slight of the Faculty of Medicine. The meeting will be held in the office of the General Secretary in Strathcona Hall. The object of the club is to provide an exchange of ideas between professors and students. All male students who are interested are invited.

Second Successful Presentation Given By Players' Club

Scenery And Acting Harmonise Well With Demands of Dramatists

TABLOID EFFECTIVE

Pantomime Is Colorful — Story Is Portayed by Movement Only

By H.X.

Last night's performance of the "Beggar on Horseback" by the Players' Club ran off smoothly, and was up to the standard of their past efforts in the realm of the drama. The various parts, — far more numerous than in any usual play, were portrayed with consistent effectiveness, while the scenery was for the most part in harmony with the demands of the dramatists.

When art succumbs to the lure of money, it is killed, and the artist is as much in his right place, as is a beggar on horseback. This is the keynote to the play, and though the plot appears to be conventional on the surface, yet the manner in which it is handled is entirely out of the ordinary. Progress of the story depends upon impressions given by various scenes of a dream by the central figure, and the skill in handling their mechanical end determines the success of the play. Though not up to the professional record set by the New York production, the presentation yesterday surpassed the expectations of many.

Railway Scene Effective

Of all the scenes, the Railway station, and the Cady home drew most favourable comment, while the cabaret and cottage seemed to come next. The pantomime was both effectively staged and acted. This was written especially for this presentation, and simply by movement on the part of the actors, portrayed the eternal quest for love in the springtime of the year and of life. George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, the writers of the "Beggar on Horseback", found many ways of adding the unique touch to their work. In addition to being a satire on the (Continued on Page Four)

Mock Parliament Defeats Measure

Votes For Women Bill Unsuccessful in Arts '32

The provincial government under the leadership of Hon. D. Lusher Smathers was defeated yesterday in introducing a bill for woman suffrage in the Arts '32 Mock Parliament. After a vigorous attack on the bill by Hon. Cockerton Smoude and his colleagues, the house voted down the proposed measure.

Previous to the debate proper, Hon. Mr. Smoude asked provincial treasurer Michel Heller Nickel what he had done with the Dominion Government unemployment relief grant. Mr. Nickel replied that while walking downtown one afternoon he had observed a number of unemployed men to whom he had given the money. Hon. Mr. Smathers then introduced his bill for woman suffrage. He pictured as one of the results of the bill Bridget and Mandy discussing matters of high political import over the garden fence or leaning on their brooms. "Since mention of this bill has been made," he said, "I have been followed by crowds of women, eager to obey my every whim and it is my intention to introduce the bill, if necessary, again and again and again."

Women's Place In Home

Mr. Smoude replied that the bill had no utilitarian value and was just another step in the rotten policy of the government. The place of woman was in the home. Quebec was unique in that it had no property rights for women. It was to be hoped that this uniqueness would be preserved.

Hon. Doody Smirkovitch, K.C., etc., refuted this speech. The uniqueness of Quebec was not, he stated, anything to be proud of. The opposition had admitted that women were as intelligent as men, why therefore should they not vote? Women have always had a great influence over men he said, citing the example of Antony and Cleopatra. This influence has usually been for the best and it could be extended by allowing women to vote.

Waving Petticoat

Mr. Levy, stated that woman has no place in the government. Woman's function as a member of society is to (Continued on Page Two)

Printer Praises Changes In Form Of Old McGill

Professional interest has been attracted to the typographical innovations in this year's Annual as is shown by the following letter received by the Board from Mr. W. J. Sutherland, manager of the Photo-engravers and Electrotypes Company, Toronto:

I have just been privileged to look over the partially completed volume 24 of "Old McGill" and hasten to extend to you and those associated with you in the production of this book, heartiest congratulations on a new departure in college annuals.

New—novel—distinctive—about expresses my opinion and I am sure there is a very delightful surprise in store for the students of McGill who can at this time have no conception of the wonderful change in the 1931 edition of the "Annual."

I feel sure that when this book is released it will receive the unanimous approval of the undergraduates and Alumni of McGill University.

Yours very truly,
W. J. Sutherland

Orchestra Repeats Successful Pieces

Schubert's Unfinished Symphony in Sunday Program

BROADCAST TODAY

Second Concert to Be Played Over Canadian Pacific Hour

This week's concert by the Montreal Orchestra in the His Majesty's Theatre on Sunday afternoon will include three numbers repeated from previous programs. These are Schubert's eighth symphony in B minor, better known as the Unfinished symphony, as well as a Ballet Suite by Rameau arranged by Motil, and Grainger's Shepherds Hey.

This afternoon the orchestra will give its second broadcast, from 5.30 to 6.30, over radio station CKAC, during the Fireside Symphony Hour sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Five numbers have been arranged for this concert, one of them being Handel's Concerto Grosso, a composition that was played at their last Sunday appearance, and which drew much applause, and very favourable comment from its critics.

Radio Program

The orchestra's radio program starts with Sellenger's Round by Byrd, a suite of old English pieces arranged for the orchestra by Bantock. Byrd is one of the greatest of the Tudor composers, and though he wrote principally for combinations of singers, the arrangement of this dance tune is effective. The second number is the Handel Concerto, which is followed by the first two movements of the Symphony No. 2 in D major by Brahms. Finlandia, a nationalistic piece by the Finnish composer Sibelius, and the Dance of the Miller, "Three Corners Hat" by De Falla, one of the best known of the Spanish composers, ends this program.

Sunday's Concert

This Sunday's concert opens with the overture to the Bartered Bride by Smetana. Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in G minor follows; this is the second of the last three written by (Continued on Page Four)

Student Reduction

Tickets for the Montreal Orchestra concert on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m., in His Majesty's Theatre may be obtained from Bill Glesman for 25 cents.

These tickets admit students to the first six rows in the Orchestra. This organization is of comparatively recent origin and is under the direction of Dean Douglas Clarke of the Faculty of Music. Tickets are on sale to members of all faculties and next week all building care-takers will distribute them.

Graduation Officers

At a class meeting yesterday Commerce '31 elected a full slate of graduation officers, including Valetorian Historian, Prophet and Permanent Secretary. Meredith Glasco will deliver the parting address in Convocation Hall in the R.V.C. the night before the class receives its degrees. George McTeer will occupy the arduous post of prophet which entails considerable peering into the future of every member of the class. Joe Altner has been given the task of writing up the class history. W. A. Barclay was named Permanent Secretary.

Atheism Editorial Results In Suspension of Varsity

City Papers Condemns Editorial

Loud echoes of the Varsity Atheism editorial were felt in the downtown Toronto newspapers yesterday. Two of the more important papers devoted flaring headlines to the action taken by University and Provincial authorities while one editorial demanded vigorous action in repudiating the statements.

The majority of the space in the articles was devoted to the demands of the Hon. Harry C. Nixon, progressive leader in the provincial legislature that an independent investigation be made into conditions at the University of Toronto regarding the truth of the Varsity's statements. This suggestion has been enthusiastically taken up by the provincial government.

Ecclesiastical and around Toronto have vigorously denied that such a condition could exist and demand that proper punishment be meted out to the editors. The general feeling seems to be one of righteous horror.

A meeting of the board of governors of the university passed a resolution repudiating the Varsity editorial. "The statements are entirely contrary to fact" they stated.

Meds Will Dance at Mount Royal Hotel

Pizza Will Be Transformed Into Decorated Cabaret

Arrangements have been completed for the Annual Medical dance which is to be held on Friday evening, March 6th in the Piazza of the Mount Royal Hotel, and according to the committee it promises to be one of the most colorful functions of the college year. Medical dances in former years have more than fulfilled the expectations of even the most critical, and this gathering of the medical students is expected to follow in the traditions built up in times past.

As usual, before all the preceding dances the committee has spared no effort and nothing will be lacking to make this surpass all previous dances. The Piazza of the Mount Royal will be converted into a specially decorated cabaret lending a true convivial atmosphere to the festivities. The music will be under the personal direction of Bram Rose, who has arranged a special musical program which will include several new features, designed solely for the occasion.

The advance sale of tickets has been satisfactory and should be obtained as soon as possible from class representatives. Arrangements for tables may be made with Mr. Crawford, in the Medical building, not later than Wednesday. In order that all seating arrangements can be made in time for the dance.

Moral Standards to Be Discussed Soon

Philosophical Society Elect Executive Officers

The next meeting of the Philosophical Society, to be held at 8 o'clock on Monday evening in Strathcona Hall will take the form of a continued discussion of the topic, "Are our Moral Standards Absolute?" Before the discussion begins, election of executive officers for the coming year will take place, and certain regular business will be transacted.

The last time the society met, the subject of moral standards proved of such provocative interest to the members that the executive felt another meeting ought to be devoted to a consideration of the question. Although no conclusions were reached by the society as a whole, the varying opinions of the different members were interesting in themselves, and the meeting on Monday evening should attract a record attendance.

S.C.A. Forum

Dr. Carl A. Dawson, of the department of Sociology will be the speaker at the next meeting of the S.C.A. Forum to be held on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Strathcona Hall. His subject will be "Religion and Society". The theme of the Forum is "Religion and the Modern World".

Staff Is Retained—Council Express Confidence In Editor

Provincial Opposition Leader Demands Arrest on Blasphemy Charges

Toronto, February 28.—(Special to McGill Daily by C. L. Coburn)—As a sequel to the atheism editorial which appeared in The Varsity of Tuesday, February 24th, the student's administrative council today ordered The Varsity to cease publication indefinitely, although the staff is being retained. The Board of Governors met yesterday, and having repudiated the atheism charges, instructed Caput council, to take disciplinary measures.

There was a meeting of Caput again last evening, the session held during the afternoon having yielded no decision. The offending editorial was discussed Thursday in the Ontario Legislature and yesterday, and the Honorable H. C. Nixon, leader of the Progressive Party demanded an investigation, the suspension of the paper, and the arrest of the editor on blasphemy charges. Liberal and Conservative leaders, however urged that no action be taken by the legislative house, and decided that the matter be left in the hands of the university authorities.

The administrative council met yesterday afternoon and ordered cessation of publication of The Varsity, for fear that the Governors would withdraw the financial support from the Council, owing to undesirable publicity from the downtown press. The Council expressed its confidence in the editor and his policy, but felt that the suspension of the university newspaper was necessary.

The editorial in question has to do with atheism in the University of Toronto. The writer developed the theme that the trend of education is to produce, or at least to tend to produce, atheism by undermining the foundations of faith. It was immediately seized upon by the downtown newspapers and the whole administration of the University and of the student organizations were at once embroiled.

Chess Team Wins By Narrow Margin

Professors And Students Engage in Annual Tourney

In the only Professor-Student chess match to be played this season the latter won out last night by the score of 2½ to 3½. Last year both teams had a win to their credit. Rowat and Black with the white pieces were successful in their attacks, while a slip cost Horowitz his game. The other three games were very stubbornly contested, Professor Thompson and Goldstein would probably have drawn but for an oversight on the part of the former. Pimenoff and Dr. Shaw played an uneventful game culminating in a draw. Dr. Maass finally penetrated Bilette's defense and won the last contest.

The score was as follows:

Professors	Students
Thompson 0	Goldstein 1
Shaw ½	Pimenoff ½
Maass 1	Bilette 0
Eve 0	Rowat 1
Keys 1	Horowitz 0
Grace 0	Black 1
	2½
	3½

Prof. Day Spoke On Importance of Gold to World

Paints Picture of Evils of Falling Prices

LECTURE BROADCAST

Senior Hockey Teams Open Important Question Of Gold

"The general level of prices in every country depends on the relation between the total quantity of goods exchanged and the total quantity and efficiency of the monetary units used to accomplish these exchanges," declared Professor J. P. Day, assistant professor of Economics, in his speech before the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. The meeting was held last night in the main dining room of the Place Viger Hotel and the lecture, the subject of which was "The Economic Importance of Gold", was broadcast through Quebec and Toronto.

Going on to explain the importance of gold in the world's commerce, Prof. Day stated that in all countries on the gold standard including more than half the population of the world and practically all the great commercial nations, the total volume of purchasing power is ultimately limited by the amount of gold in their possession.

Depression Disasters

The lecturer then dwelt upon the evil of falling prices. When there is a tendency for prices in general to take a slump, a miniature panic is the result. As this slump becomes more pronounced business and industry become unprofitable. The only remedy, a reduction of wages, brings nothing but resentment from the earners. Thus it can be seen that the falling price level dislocates the whole economic life of the nation by causing a drastic redistribution of income. The last year or so has proven how disastrous the fall in the general level of prices can be.

Rev. J. King Gordon Lectures Tomorrow

Son of "Ralph Connor" Speaks on Unemployment

Rev. J. King Gordon, M.A., B.D., will be the lecturer at the Y.M.C.A. forum tomorrow afternoon. He is the son of the well-known Canadian author Rev. Dr. Gordon of Winnipeg who writes under the nom-de-plume of "Ralph Connor". He will have as his subject "Social Insurance and Relief". The speaker took a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University where he specialised in Economics and since his return to Canada has been taking post-graduate work at Union Theological Seminary, where he is also assisting as a lecturer in Christian ethics.

The Forum subject for the day will cover some of the operations actually in use to relieve unemployment. The meeting takes place at 3.15 in the auditorium of the central "Y".

Theologs Shade Coed Brumblists

Colorful Spectacle in Hollow Yesterday, 3-1

Yesterday afternoon before an appreciative and enthusiastic audience the R.V.C. '34 brumblists went down to a glorious 3-1 defeat after a hard-fought battle with United Theologs.

The game began with great gusto and after four seven-minute periods the theologs had netted the twine for three baskets which went in with sweeping thrusts. One of the masculine opponents kindly scored the co-ed point so that it would not be a complete washout.

The fair co-eds gaily decorated with aprons and dust caps presented a most unusual sight as they swept their way from one end of the Hollow to the other. One penalty only was meted out and that naturally to a brilliantly playing theolog who endeavored to break his opponents' broom in his desire to add to the score. He went to the penalty bench amid cheers of "dirty McRae" by his affectionate supporters.

Babs Goulding refereed, dressed appropriately for the occasion. She was an excellent master of ceremonies with a growth of beard 12 inches long, stove-pipe hat, and she certainly gave the theologs a great big hand.

RED AND WHITE REVUE

Number One

Theatre Night

The tradition of "theatre night" at McGill is an old one, dating back to 1895. On this occasion the glee clubs from Yale and Princeton were present and the whole university paraded to the theatre, headed by the Meds who had captured the sports.

Previous to this each faculty had had their own night. These often coincided with resultant scraps. They were usually held a month after college started. The band and glee club always attended and prizes were presented by the principle's wife.

In Old McGill '01 we find a picture of a theatre night group at the Academy of Music, which is decorated with flags and banners. A poem beneath says "some came early but none were late". The students carried banners and sang lustily between acts. Afterwards they burned an effigy of Com. Paul on Dominion Square.

In Old McGill '02 there is a picture of a crowd at His Majesty's. A wire strung from the stage to the gods carried class banners and ensigns.

In Old McGill '04 there is an account of the 1902 theatre night. Freshmen were garb in red and white with terms of yellow. Banners and shields were carried and the students joined in the singing.

A parade with fireworks featured the evening. This was headed by the fusiliers band and the crowd marched by years instead of by faculties.

A custom of serenading the professors after the show also obtained. The contrast between those far-off days and the present day Red and White Revue is truly astonishing. The committee intend to run a series of articles, of which this is the first, giving interesting facts concerning both past Revues and the 1931 edition.

Alas And Alack

We remove our hat and bow our head in silent respect for the glorious, free and enlightened city of Toronto whence perplexing news despatches emanate. It is once more proved that the capital of Ontario is truly the home of sweet Religion. Champions rise to serve her from the streets even unto the judgment seat. All the way from the lake-front to the city limits unwary strangers are buttonholed and asked whether they have yet "been saved" or "found the Lord" or been "washed in the blood of the Lamb." Disinterested legislators leap to their feet with cries of fury when a gentle little provocative editorial appears in a student paper suggesting that there may be such a thing as "Atheism" in the University of Toronto. Of course, there are a few rational religiously minded people in Toronto. At these we do not laugh. They command respect. But it is a sad and sorry fact that Ontario suffers to a truly remarkable extent from religious fanaticism.

The result of the whole business is that the "Varsity" has been suspended and the editor threatened with arrest on a blasphemy charge. People appear to be busily engaged in running hither and yon denying this and affirming that. The Toronto papers have more or less taken leave of their senses. Streamers heads and four-column stories describe how the Caput of the University demanded explanations and how the Governors refuse to act and how the Students' Administrative Council has suspended its editor with a most illogical and anomalous commendation. The whole business measures well up to "The Varsity's" idea of a real row.

In Montreal the "Atheism Editorial" would be considered tame and mild. At worst there might be a letter or two in the correspondence column. In Toronto things are far different. The hysterical press has taken the matter in hand. Hysterical members of the legislature have seen fit to make public mouthings. Hysterical fanatics have proposed the arrest of "The Varsity" editor on a blasphemy charge. These are but a few of the confused happenings of the last day or two, and we confidently await further developments knowing that Toronto is Toronto. Anything may happen in a town where a leading citizen remarks in three inch letters in a large newspaper that "Communism is Diabolical" and where intelligent editorial comment is couched in such phrases as "There is vast danger in assisting Russian Soviet."

After all, atheism is a fact and is entitled to rank for consideration as such. Our constitution forbids us to expand on religious doctrine but we venture to assume that the real article is not lacking on our own campus.

Having said so much for the city and province in which our temporarily defunct contemporary has the misfortune to operate, we cannot disregard the fact that "The Varsity" has ever done its best to get into rows and its success in this regard speaks highly for the bellicose propensities of those who manage the paper far be it from us to desert a companion in distress, but we must recognize that the paper has to some extent brought its troubles on its own head. Half-a-dozen times in the past three years Toronto Editors have been on the verge of expulsion as a result of carrying too far controversies which they started, but in which they were not sincere. It is the essence of a reliable editorial column that opinions expressed therein shall be sincere. Otherwise credit is lost and the paper becomes merely a scurrilous rag. Into this error we believe the undergraduate journalists in Toronto have fallen. Several of the rows in which they have been engaged carry no air of real conviction about them. The idea seems to be to start a row for the purpose of having a row.

Toronto is a sensitive, queer town and "The Varsity" certainly makes no effort to be tactful. We might suggest in closing that if our friends paid more attention to the news and a little less to sensational "copy" their word would be taken with a little more weight in these parts.

Local Talent

McGill does not seem to suffer from the lack of what is called "Local Talent". Those extramural activities which strive after the artistic, such as the Players' Club, the Choral Society, the Music clubs and the Red and White Revue are flourishing well this year in the face of the depression which has hit student pocket-books as well as those of the rest of the world.

This interest in dramatics and music is a healthy sign in a university, which is supposedly a seat of culture. Students can not complain of their need for self-expression when they have so many means to hand for satisfying their desire for Art. And they can rest assured that when they put themselves in the hands of any of the organisations mentioned they will be under capable direction.

The amateur bodies at McGill carry to their efforts a sincere and whole-hearted desire to do the best possible. The Revue of any particular year is not "just another revue" in the minds of its producers. And so it is with the other productions. There is manifested an ambition to venture beyond the usual which is uncommon among amateurs.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir,

May I have space in your columns briefly to comment on the points of contention regarding the seating accommodation at the recent Harvard-McGill hockey game?

I shall not attempt to defend either the actions of the Athletic Board, or what I consider the justifiable indignation of many members of the Students' Society; but I should like to state simply a few facts which might tend to remove some part of the extraordinary amount of misunderstanding which exists.

In the first place, the Forum, being the largest and best hockey arena in the city, is in a position almost to dictate to any team which it accommodates; and, unluckily, in the interests of its stockholders, it all too often asserts its prerogative. The Forum authorities may set their own price and allocate the seats as they see fit. The Athletic Board has no immediate redress.

For the evening of Monday last the Athletic Manager had received assurance from the Forum that 1600 seats would be reserved until 7:45 for McGill students. For some reason, so far unknown, the Forum reserved only 1100 seats. They acknowledge their mistake and have been extremely apologetic. They deny, however, the accusation that any students with coupons were denied admission; and they claim that, in some instances, students with coupons were allowed to sit in the higher priced seats.

The Forum takes a large proportion of the net profits; and for this reason the Athletic Board has to pay the Forum 30 cents for every student coupon received at the gate. For all the usual home games, that is, those which are normally expected, the Athletic Board have budgeted at the beginning of the college year, and thus make allowance for the redemption of coupons. This, of course, is as it should be, since the revenue of the Board consists in part of the funds received from students in exchange for coupons.

But the Harvard game was arranged at very short notice. It had not been budgeted for; and when the possibility of playing such a game was entertained the Board were of the opinion that they would suffer a pecuniary loss by allowing students to use their coupons; but they felt, further, that if at all possible students would be allowed this privilege. After a great deal of thought it was considered possible for the Board to take the risk.

Estimates of the expected loss were based on the figures for other intercollegiate games. The remarkable attendance was as unexpected as it was gratifying.

It might be well to remind students that, in fact as well as in name, the Athletic Board is NOT a money-making organization; its deficit runs into several thousands of dollars even in the most successful of years; and that, in the spending of the funds at its disposal on athletics the Board goes on the principle that it is more advantageous to encourage the actual participants than the spectators. Its efforts towards this goal I cannot entirely commend.

May I also remind the students that they are not themselves blameless; that, as in every game, the section reserved for holders of coupons being thrown open to the public 15 minutes before the game starts, a student should not be too aggrieved if, on arriving late, he cannot get a seat; that although the book of coupons bears the inscription "not transferable", a great many coupons were sold—and sold to persons other than undergraduates; and that over 50 student coupons handed in at the Harvard game were not the specific coupons allotted for the game but falsified editions.

On the other hand I am far from ready to admit that the Athletic Board and the athletic manager have given no cause for criticism. Certain details were, most certainly, handled carelessly. The agreement with the Forum, for instance, should admit of no possibility of mistake. But perhaps the biggest cause for criticism is the lack of publicity given to certain rather complicated situations with which the Board is confronted. Students are not given a fair chance to judge fairly. Assuredly a better scheme for handling the student-ticket problem could be devised; and a better and more inclusive contract with the Forum might be obtained—a contract where the price of seats could be fixed and the student accommodation assured.

Lastly, Mr. Editor, might I apologise that the exigencies of space have necessitated this cursory outline; but I should be pleased to elaborate on any of the points mentioned should it be desired. Thanking you, for your courtesy,

I am,
Yours truly,
E. Millard Astwood.

A propos of
"La Souriante Mme Beudet"
The Editor,
McGill Daily,
February 27th, 1931.

Dear Sir:
It is necessary to have a good knowledge and understanding of the theatre and of the spirit of a foreign country to allow oneself to condemn in a definite and cutting manner a play written in another language than one's own. When one is still occupied in mastering the difficulties of the French grammar, it would be wiser to weigh one's opinion for a long time before expressing it.

To speak in connection with "La Souriante Mme. Beudet" of the eternal triangle is to use ready-made and false opinion of the French theatre, and to ignore the very real and human value of the play.

The play is not empty because the author has not piled into it incidents and adventures. The sentimental crisis which nearly makes a criminal of an unhappy woman crushed and humiliated by a tyrannical husband seems to me on the contrary extremely touching and true.

The interpretation of the play is excellent. Martha Allan lends to Madame Beudet her smiling grace, her dignity, her reserved and effective acting.

Rene du Roure creates the character of a nagging, vulgar, even brutal husband. He carried his acting to a point at which it was obvious to the audience that his wife was perfectly justified in trying to kill him. It would be impossible now to remember Monsieur Beudet without attributing to him the physiognomy, the personality, and the voice created for him by Rene du Roure.

Yours sincerely,
Lucile Touren-Furness.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

I would suggest that when a French play is given in Montreal, you should send to report it someone who knows French. It is quite clear from the account of "La Souriante Madame Beudet" by Frank Rand, that the reporter did not at all grasp even the general trend of the play. He refers in his article to the "banal triangle" found in so many French plays, and classes this production among them, despite the fact that there is no "triangle" situation in "La Souriante Madame Beudet". It is quite clear that Mr. Rand did not understand the play, which has been acclaimed by prominent critics as one of the best plays written since the War.

There are so many students on the Daily Staff who speak French fluently and understand it one cannot help wonder why a man who apparently has such a slight knowledge of French should be sent to report a French play.

Yours very truly,
M. A. Daig.

McGill Mermen Keeps Swimming Title in New Pool

Captain Munroe Bourne Leads Red Team To Win Over Varsity In Kingston

Skipper Breaks Own Records in 200 And 440 Yard Free Style Events, Takes Backstroke, And Swims in Winning Relay Team—Flash Brophy And Bill Sprenger One-Two in Sprints—Varsity Takes Diving, Breaststroke, and Amasses 25 points to McGill's 32.

By Phil Matthams
(McGill Daily Staff Writer)

Kingston, Feb. 27.—The opening of the Queen's Pool here to-night was marked by brilliant swimming and falling records as McGill defeated Toronto in the intercollegiate swimming meet handsomely with 43 points to 25. There was never any real danger that McGill would lose the title of last year, and the closest threat was made by Toronto when they took first and second in the diving and breast stroke events when the score stood 32 to 22 for McGill.

Letters Earned

Three new big M's will be awarded as a result of tonight's races. Brophy, Sprenger, and Bourne gathering the necessary points. Bourne himself broke two of his own records in the 200 yards free style and the 440 yards free style. Sinclair of Toronto also broke his own record in the 200 yards breast stroke. "Flash" Brophy lived up to all expectations and took first in the 50 yards free, second in the 100 yards free, and swam well in the relay. Bourne also acquitted himself well and covered himself with glory by winning three firsts.

The beginning of the meet agured well for McGill as Brophy and Sprenger came one-two in the 50 yards free, with Tedman of Toronto a length behind for third place.

Bourne Breaks Own Mark

Bourne went away for a good lead in the next, the 200 yards free, and defeated Glass of Toronto by a good 20 yards to win in the record time of 2 minutes, 7 seconds. Shaw was only beaten by six feet when he took third place.

The diving was unfortunate for McGill and was marred by the fact that Griffiths hit the board with his foot in a standing Molberg. He retired for a while but came back again into competition. Henderson of Toronto dived well to defeat his team mate Doyle by the barest margin one point. Griffiths placed third.

Another Red One-Two

Again McGill took one-two, and this was in the back stroke event when Bourne beat Wilson comfortably. Towers was lagging behind for third place.

The 100 yards dash was perhaps the best race of the night, and it came again that McGill got one-two. Sprenger only just ouches before "Flash" Brophy to win the Neil Buckley trophy. Marsh was an arm's length behind.

Forging ahead with a powerful stroke Sinclair of Toronto repeated his success of last year to win the 200 yards breast stroke very easily and to break his own record by 2-5 seconds. Withrow was second and Skelch, the find from Macdonald, took third place.

Quarter Mile Record Falls

The inimitable stroke of Bourne was seen to advantage in the 440 yard free style. McGill needed only first place in this to gain the meet. Bourne was well ahead and at 12 laps he was one lap ahead, which (Continued on Page Four)

PHIL MATTHAMS, veteran polo player and star defenceman, who captained the McGill ball-chasers in their first game of a home-and-home series tonight with Toronto University, for the Canadian intercollegiate title.

McGill Polo Team Ready For Opening Game at Toronto

Phil Matthams Leads Challengers at Hart House Tonight

RETURN GAME HERE

UNDER the captaincy of Phil Matthams, and with Munroe Bourne leading the attack from centre, the McGill senior water polo team will make a determined effort to take the first game of a home-and-home series from Varsity, when the two squads clash at the Hart House pool tonight in Toronto. The blue aggregation holds the Canadian Intercollegiate Water Polo title, and the McGill mermen are prepared to give their best in order to bring the Herschorn Trophy back to Montreal. While the Toronto University squad is intact, the McGill mermen have found it necessary to make two changes, replacing two of last year's players by members of the junior squad. However, on the whole the team is stronger than last year, and should give the present title-holders a hard fight; the McGill forwards are fast swimmers, whilst the defence is formidable. In the recent City League games, they showed promising form, winning more than half of their matches.

Erratic at Times

But the red mermen have proved themselves erratic, playing brilliantly at times only to relapse into intervals of poor performance. Yet, with so much at stake when they take to the water tonight, and under the guiding influence of Phil Matthams, they should give a good performance of their abilities. Charles Wayland, formerly the junior netminder, will be seen for the second time in senior company, having played in one senior contest during the City League schedule. Always cool and collected, and with a fast eye for any sort of shots, he is being counted on to keep the Toronto sharpshooters at bay.

The McGill defence of Matthams and Payton, aided by Bob Brophy at half, ought to prove well-nigh impenetrable to any swimmers Toronto may produce, no matter how fast. It will take an amazing spurt of speed to get away from Bob Brophy, who is one of the redmen's star sprinters. Matthams and Payton always keep their men covered, and should prove a constant source of annoyance to opposing forwards.

Fast Wings

The McGill forward line of Bourne, Shackell, and Mersereau, with Stein and French as relief men, will look after the duties of storming the blue citadel. All three regular wings are (Continued on Page Four)

ENGINEERING INTERFACULTY CAGERS DEFEAT ARTS 27-24

Loom Up as Future Title Holders—Game Closely Contested — Last Few Minutes Play Gives Plumbers Victory — O'Dowd High Scorer For Scientists With 11 Points

Allan Mills

winners of the interfaculty title had in the last two years easily turned back all kinds of opposition and defeated the McGill City League hoopers in a practice game.

The contest yesterday afternoon marked the second victory of plumber cagers over Arts aggregations this year. About three weeks ago the Engineering '33 quintet annexed the interclass title and ended the long undisputed sway of Arts '32. The personnel of the Arts and plumber interfaculty aggregation is made up for the most part from the roster of Arts '32 and Engineering '33 and yesterday the scientists undoubtedly stamped themselves as the superior team. After their victory over last year's title holders the plumbers are conceded the title and only a few incidental gamelets between them and the final laurels.

Not Easy Victory

It was not an easy victory for the scientists, for the Arts men fought all the way, through and more than once snatched the lead from the plumbers. However, the engineers play best when hardest pressed and in the last few minutes of play rallied finely to win by a bare three points.

The game started very cautiously with both teams feeling out their opponents. However it was not long before the engineers found openings and the forwards ran riot to gain a 6 point lead. The score was now 10-3 and the plumbers slackened their pace a trifle. This proved disastrous for the Arts men, eager to take advantage of all opportunities staged a fine rally and before the first frame had come to an end the score was 10-10.

Close Game

Right from the start of the second session Arts started with a rush and within a minute were leading 16-12. The engineers came right back and a neat long shot by Mills started the scoring spree for Science, and when the smoke cleared the slide-rule men were on the long end of the score 22-16. The battle was waging from one side to the other and in a few minutes the Arts men had drawn abreast of the plumbers. Only three minutes of play remained and the score was 22-22.

For about a minute both aggregations played cautiously and then with dazzling speed the engineers suddenly swept up the floor and Chennel hooped the twine on a beautiful play. A few seconds later O'Dowd swooped in on a lone attempt and sank the ball into the cage. An Arts penalty was drawn on this play and O'Dowd made no mistake in registering another point. In the last minute of play Arts sent five men up the floor in a desperate attempt to even the count but the Engineers succeeded in keeping them off and the game ended with the score 27-23 in favor of Science.

Women Basketeers Lose to Western

London Coeds Win 36-18 at Kingston—Varsity Up

McGILL-QUEEN'S TODAY

Kingston, Feb. 27.—(Special to McGill Daily)—Varsity swamped the Limestone City cagers last night in the second fracas of the tune of 41 to 13. The winner's five-man defence and perfect combination showed the effect of excellent coaching. They meet Western tomorrow and are favored to win the trophy again.

By Margaret I. Stockton

KINGSTON, Feb. 27.—McGill Coeds went down to a 36-18 defeat this afternoon when they clashed with Western in the opening match of the Intercollegiate basketball tournament at Kingston.

The red and white basketeers were decidedly off their game, and the spectacular playing of Mary Wong, Western side centre, added extra punch to the winners.

The game was retarded by the consistent close checking which called for the referee's whistle all through the conflict. The Western combination from centre to forwards was excellent, and although McGill put up a good fight their defence were unable to stop the fast moving scoring line.

McGill tallied the first points of the game on a free shot by Captain Craik. This was followed by a neat field goal by Janet Baillie. Western's centre-line got the ball through to the cage but tried three times before they were able to score. McGill lost the lead after the first ten minutes and was unable to regain it. A spurt on the part of the purple and white collegians gave them a 15-to-8 lead.

Janet Dobson replaced Jean Campbell on the McGill defence line three-quarters of the way through the first period. Louise Smart netted two more points for McGill and Western added to their score to give them the edge on the 17-to-10 count at half time. Western got away to a fast start in the opening minutes of the last session, as Mary Wong piled up ten points in succession while the audience cheered loudly. The McGill centre was out-jumped and the ball went straight to Mary Wong who tallied before she could be covered. With 26 to 10 score against them McGill recovered and tallied five points. With six minutes to go Western called time out.

McGill made three points on free shots, but Western ended up with a succession of nice baskets, giving them the right to meet Varsity tomorrow (Continued on Page Four)

Basketball Squad Meet Western in Last Game Tonight

Regardless of Outcome, McGill Has Intercollegiate Title

SECONDS vs. Y.M.H.A.

McGILL'S basketball team, which has already won the intercollegiate championship plays the last game on the schedule on Saturday when Western opposes it on the Montreal High School floor. Matched on the same card in a regular city league game are McGill seconds and Y.M.H.A. seniors.

A victory over Western would end the intercollegiate season for the redmen with a clean slate, no defeats having been marked up against them by any other Canadian college teams. The team has lost only one exhibition game this year. This was against U. of Vermont very early in the season when they were without the services of Don Young, stellar centreman, but in a return game here last week McGill, with a complete line-up, secured revenge over the Vermonters, 42-35.

Another game billed for the McGill team this coming week is against the North American Life team leaders of the city senior league. This game is to decide the city championship which McGill won last year, winning at the same time the Dodd's Trophy.

Hard Battle Expected

The game against Western is expected to be one of the features of the intercollegiate schedule. This is the team which McGill had the greatest difficulty in defeating. At London, McGill emerged victors by an eight-point margin the last time they met, but only after Western had come up to within two points of McGill with three minutes to play.

Western has the tallest team in the league, having four regulars on the team who are over six feet tall. These are Munro, Manness, Captain Gunn, and Ward. The fifth regular, Beaton, is the fastest man on the team and is also the most effective man on the purple.

McGill will be at full strength against the Mustangs with the return of Sterling McLean to the game. Don Young will start at centre. Of late he has been one of the high scorers on the team, which makes him a more dangerous man than ever to the opposing quintets. Faulkner and Captain Small will start on the forward line. Small has hit his stride in recent games and has come in for a large share of the scoring.

Close City Game Likely

The last time the Seconds played Y.M.H.A. the north-enders emerged victorious by a three-point margin, but not until after McGill held the margin of play and were leading for the great part of the game. Both teams are very strong defensively, and, as a result, scoring should be low. The redmen are now at the bottom of the league standing but their displays recently have shown that they merit a much higher standing.

The line-up for the intercollegiate game will be:—

McGill	Western
Small	Forward
Faulkner	Forward
Young	Centre
Calhoun	Guard
Rice	Subs
MacLean	Barbour
Weber	Parquharson
Moore	Young
The first game starts at 8.15 sharp.

M.A.A.A.-McGill Play Final Monday

Senior Hockey Teams Open Two-Game Series

FOR PROVINCIAL TITLE

RUNNING through an hour's stiff practice at the Forum yesterday afternoon, McGill's senior hockeyists completed a week's hard training for their two-game play-off series against M.A.A.A. starting Monday night.

With Dr. Bell and Dr. Flanagan coaching the squad from the sidelines, the boys ran through their paces briskly and are reported to be in the pink of condition. They will rest up over the week-end and take the first Monday night against last year's Allan Cup champions in the first game of the series for the Q.A.H.A. senior group title. The second match will be played next Wednesday, with total goals to count on the road.

Squad Ready To Go

Despite their setback at the hands of Harvard last Monday, the redmen are determined to make things hot for the M.A.A.A. sextet. Should McTeer and Co. battle against the Wheelers, like they did against the Crimson, nothing but victory can crown their efforts.

Following upon the announcement that the crack M.A.A.A. team has lost its star goalkeeper, Smith, to pro ranks, and that other members are suffering from minor injuries, McGill supporters are keenly looking to the redmen to take the series. In many quarters, McGill is given more than an even break against the Allan Cup holders, but despite rumors, the redmen are not taking the series for granted. There will be battling from the opening gong to the final whistle on Wednesday night next, and all through those 120 minutes of hockey, both teams will be exerting their utmost to come through with a win, realizing that the next step means entrance into Allan Cup playdowns.

Smith to Discuss Monroe Doctrine

Historical Club Meeting at
The Home of Don Munn

SUBJECT OF INTEREST

Some Think It Beneficial,
Others Find Selfish
Motive

The Monroe Doctrine will once again be discussed when the Historical Club will hold its next meeting at the home of Daniel Munn, Tuesday night, March 3rd. Ronald Smith will give the paper.

The subject has a particular interest at present, as it was the main theme of the Porto Rican debates who are touring Canada and the U. S. A. The Monroe Doctrine was first formulated on December 2nd, 1823, by the United States. It was during the Congressional Period, the age of reaction in Europe, and a concert of European powers had already overthrown, by means of French troops, the constitutional government of Spain, and reinstated the legitimate king Ferdinand VII on the throne of his ancestors. It was felt that the next step would be to restore the Spanish Colonies, which had revolted and set up independent republican governments to the former state of dependence to the mother country.

"Hands-Off" Policy
In the meantime, cut out by Napoleon's "Continental System" England's trade had increased to an enormous extent with the South American Republics, particularly Argentina, and as Spain had monopolized the South American Trade and would do so again, England was strongly opposed to the restoration of Spanish rule in the Caribbean Sea and over the Southern Continent. Canning, the British Secretary, therefore proposed to the government of the U. S. A. that these two great nations combine to protect the governments of Central and South America. Many men in the States regarded the plan with favor, even Monroe himself; but Madison opposed it in his famous words that he did not want to see "The United States a cockpit in the wake of the British Man-of-war." His opinion carried and on December 2nd the U. S. A. issued the famous declaration.

Since then the Monroe Doctrine has undergone many various interpretations. Some feel that it has been the means of doing inestimable good to Central and South America and the world at large, and others feel that it has only been a cloak for United States aggression.

It is understood that Smith in his paper will consider both these points of view and that he will tell what important men both in the U. S. A. and Central and South America have said for or against the Monroe Doctrine.

Second Successful Presentation Given By Players' Club

American worship of money, the play knocks these institutions which to the more philosophic appear unduly stressed, and greatly overplayed. Mass production, and the if-placed-end-to-end-it-would-reach-to-the-moon advertisement, as well as correspondence courses receive their bit of ridiculing, while fads, high pressure salesmanship and tabloid newspapers are not left untouched.

Tabloid Distributed
The paper handed out at the intermission, in imitation of the speedy delivery of some of the New York tabloids caused many laughs, and kept a larger number of people in their seats than is usual between acts. The audience was so interested in them, that when the curtain went up on the curtain went up on the court room scene, hurried rustling of the papers could be heard from all sides of the hall, as they were being put away.

The audience were disappointed only once, and that was at the end of the performance, when the curtain did not go up for the final bow, after the applause that greeted the end of the play. This and a few other inevitable slips were all that could be noticed, which all being minor, still leave the performance a success.

lead he increased to two laps to win the race with record time. Glass of Toronto finished second and Stein took third place for McGill.
Even though they had won the meet the red team did not let up in their style, and only failed by 4.5 seconds to break the relay record. Had they have been fresh there is no doubt that the time would have fallen considerably. Flash Brophy started for McGill and took 2 yards' lead from Sinclair; Shaw continued in the good work and increased it to 3 yards from Henderson; Bourne was feeling the effects of his long grind and held his position for McGill, in fact increased it by half a yard from Tedman; while Sprenger increased the lead even farther still to five yards, to bring the galleries to their feet, in defeating Marsh.

It was excellent swimming all the way through and set up some standards and times for Queen's to beat in posterity. Queen's entered a team in the relay race but are not quite up to intercollegiate standards yet.

The results
50 yards free style: Brophy (M) won; Sprenger (M) 2nd; Tedman (V) 3rd. Time, 25 4-5 seconds.
200 yards free style: Bourne (M) won; Glass (V) 2nd; Shaw (M) 3rd. Time, 2 minutes, 7 seconds (Record).
Diving: Henderson (V) won; Doyle (V) 2nd; Griffiths (M) 3rd.

100 yards backstroke: Bourne (M) won; Wilson (M) 2nd; Towers (V) 3rd. Time, 1 minute, 11 1-5 seconds.
100 yards free style: Sprenger (M) won; Brophy (M) 2nd; Marsh (V) 3rd. Time 59 2-5 seconds.

200 yards breaststroke: Sinclair (V) won; Withrow (V) 2nd; Skelch (M) 3rd. Time 2 minutes, 54 2-5 seconds (Record).

440 yards free style: Bourne (M) won; Glass (V) 2nd; Stein (M) 3rd. Time 5 minutes, 32 1-5 seconds (Record).

200 yards relay: McGill (Brophy, Shaw, Bourne, Sprenger) won; Varsity (Sinclair, Henderson, Tedman, Marsh) 2nd. Time, 1 minute, 45 seconds.

Points: McGill 32, Varsity 25.

Orchestra Repeats Successful Pieces

him, all of which were given to the world after less than two month's work. The third number is the Ballet Suite written by the French composer and theorist Rameau followed by the Schubert symphony, and Grainger's Shepherd Hey. This last is an arrangement by the composer, of an old English folk dance somewhat resembling the Grand Chain of the Quadrille, and uses a large orchestra as well as a large variety of percussion instruments.

Information on this all-important subject. Mr. Woodworth has made a study of Russian relations with the West, and since such momentous decisions are being made at the present concerning that power, some illuminating information may be expected.

good shots, but are rather inclined to rush themselves at times with the result that many good opportunities go wasted. But tonight should witness a radical change in their method of attack. Stein and French have distinguished themselves in junior polo, especially the former, who scored at least once in every game, and at times as many as five and six.

The aggregation that will bear the red colors into the fray is a well-balanced one, and seeing that six of its members will be making their second-last appearance on a McGill team, there remaining the last game in Montreal next week, they should be out to do their best, and if that means anything, it signifies that they will return to Montreal with the Herschorn Trophy virtually in their baggage.

Varsity Confident
Seeing that the blue team which defeated McGill last year is intact, the Queen City supporters are confident of holding their championship. The line-up of the Torontonians will include Bob Armstrong, who stars so consistently, and Eddie Sinclair, who holds the 200 yards breaststroke record. Harvey Graham, flashy forward, will once more be seen in his old position.

Reports Indicate Party Activities Reach Fever Heat

Hon. A. M. Klein, Minister of Justice, refused to add anything to the Premier's statement of yesterday, saying merely, "This step is inevitable. By putting their faith in us, the people showed that they know what they want when they want it. And they're going to get it. That is all."

Plans have been arranged for the Premier to speak all along the route from Ottawa to Montreal, culminating with the regular mass meeting on Tuesday, at which the Opposition leaders will also speak.

Cabinet Announced
Plg and Whistle, Que. Feb. 27. — After a hectic all-night session at the Conservative Headquarters here, the Rt. Hon. H. J. Zaitlin declared he was unable to give any statement, but was finally prevailed upon to disclose the "Shadow Cabinet" which he has prepared, ready for the resignation of the Premier. As was expected, the Rt. Hon. Edmund G. Collard holds a portfolio along with several other members of the former cabinet.

Among the changes that have taken place is the transfer of the Rev. Mordecai Ford from the Ministry of Fisheries to that of the clergy, although this is in accordance with his own wishes, as he declares that there has been much fishy business carried on with the clergy of late.

The complete cabinet follows: Prime Minister and Most Exalted High-Bah: Rt. Hon. A. H. J. Zaitlin S.P.C.A.

Minister of Osculatory Callisthenics: Rt. Hon. Edmund G. Collard, R.V.C.

Minister of Maternal Affairs and Production: Saul Hayes, C.O.D.

Minister of Saloons and Spiritual Affairs: Fred Valkenburg, A.O.A.

Minister of Finance and Custodian of the Dough: K. G. Baker, L.S.D.

Minister of Matrimonial Affairs and War: "Cow" Ambrose O'Meara, K.O.

Minister of the Polynesian Church and Chief Rabbi: The Very Reverend Mordecai Ford.

Minister of Matrimonies and Birth Control: Wilson Becket, E.O.B.

Purveyor-General: "Sauerkraut" Schaffhausen, R.S.V.P.

Official Bootlegger: "Scarface" Al. Edson, No. 101375.

Minister of Air and Hot Air: H. B. Lande, C.K.A.C.

ly posed, and the results have been decidedly amusing. In fact the "College Life" section has helped satisfy the Annual Board's ambition namely to have a picture of everyone in the book.

While the board will not confirm the report that a good deal of campus scandal will be uncovered in the pages of the books the rumor still persists, and seems likely to become a reality. Neither will the editors say any more of the features in the book, except that they are hiding a couple of surprises that will only be revealed when the book is sold.

Minnesota Men Will Find Out What Co-eds Expect of Them

By Exchange Service
University of Minnesota men will get their first concrete hint as to just what co-eds expect of them when the results of a questionnaire issued by Anne Dudley Bliz, dean of women, are made known.

The questionnaire, covering almost every phase of a university woman's social relations, is being used as part of the work in educational advisory class for women and girls taught by Dean Bliz.

The questions included in the survey were drawn up by four prominent co-eds on the campus.

All members of the class as well as university high school girls will be given the quiz in order to compare reactions of high school and college women.

The questionnaire is as follows: (In order to make this questionnaire reliable, the questions must be answered truthfully. No signature is required.)

Put a plus sign in front of the number of the question if your answer is to be "yes"; a minus sign if your answer is to be "no"; and a 0 if you are indifferent about the situation.

a drastic shortage of gold supplies. Since the possibility of discovering any great stores of this metal is slight, a means of avoiding this crisis must be found. The remedy is to economize on the gold stores we now possess. Further, a reduction in the legal requirements of gold reserve ratios would be perfectly safe and sensible if it were done universally.

"As Canadians," Professor Day concluded, "we ought to encourage prospecting as much as possible. We ought to send a representative to the meeting of the Bank for International Settlement to take place some time in May. His vote would not have much power behind it, but he would lend moral support. Finally, study well this important question of the present gold situation."
